DEBAUCH ENDS EXCURSION DAY

Over Seven Thousand Negroes here, Many of them Held over until Morning. Woman Shot, Man Robbed and Other Sensations.

One woman shot as the result of a drunken brawl, three persons injured in a trolley accident caused by an intoxicated passenger, an officer assaulted by a mob of fifty negroes, a citizen robbed of $35, numerous fights and a scene of general debauch ended at half past five this morning when the Western Maryland started on their homeward way the last of the 7240 colored excursionists which the road dumped into Gettysburg on Monday.

It is doubtful if any excursion ever run to the town has brought forth the wide-spread and openly expressed indignation which was aroused in Gettysburg Monday evening when the throng of negroes, hundreds of them partially or entirely under the influence of liquor, thronged the town and created a condition which disgusted every citizen who was unfortunate enough to see it.

It was not until after three o'clock Monday afternoon that the Western Maryland got in the last of its eight trainloads of people and at seven o'clock in the evening, with hundreds of the people still here, it was announced that all the trains had left and there would be no further way of getting to Baltimore until the specials could be run back to make a second trip. All night long many of the people had to wait, and as the warm air turned into an uncomfortable cold, fires were built along the track out of newspapers, boxes, crates or anything the unfortunate negroes could gather. Huddled by the side of these blazes they made themselves as comfortable as possible. About half past five this morning the last trainload pulled out and the sorry affair had come to an end.

That the Western Maryland could bring the excursionists here and not be able to get them back is explained by the fact that at Baltimore in the morning a mob of almost 9000 negroes appeared to buy tickets for Gettysburg. Even though the road had borrowed cars from the Reading they did not have sufficient to bring all here and about 1500 were left behind. The majority managed to pack themselves into the cars, as many as 125 getting into a coach. They arrived here after a most uncomfortable ride and, when time came to leave, refused to get in again in the same fashion.

Woman Shot in Fight
The most serious affair of the entire day and night was the shooting of Clara Brown, unmarried, a Baltimore negress who was seriously injured in a fight in the basement of the Hotel Gettysburg. Several rooms had been fitted out for the excursionists, the first with improvised tables and the second as a bar.

About six o'clock in the evening many men and women were seated at the tables when the crowd in the bar started jostling each other about and finally got into a free-for-all fight in which beer bottles and glasses were thrown about and wild confusion resulted. The bartenders retreated and in the melee one of the negroes pulled a revolver, stepping from the bar into the other room, and shooting directly at the Brown woman.

The shot entered over the right kidney and went through her body, a probe showing it to have lodged above the left breast. It is not known whether the aim was deliberate and intentional or whether the man, as yet not caught, knew her and shot directly at her. It is said that they had engaged in a quarrel earlier in the day on Carlisle street.

The assailant, a slender light brown man, fled and other negroes carried the bleeding woman up Baltimore street to the jail, crowds of people following and the affair generally creating excitement. Dr. Dalbey, the jail physician, was summoned and the injured woman made as comfortable as possible. She spent a restless night and is in a serious condition to-day.

Three Injured
The three persons injured in the trolley accident during the afternoon were all able to go home. Their injuries were slight. A drunken passenger, pulling the bell rope, caused the motorman to stop and a rear-end collision resulted and the fact that more were not seriously injured was due to the careful manner in which the motormen were proceeding. The cars escaped damage.

Officer Emmons was mobbed by a large crowd of negroes at the Western Maryland station during the day. He had rushed in when he saw a man strike a woman with sufficient force to knock her down and was about to place him under arrest when fifty or more colored men charged upon him. Western Maryland detectives Comgyr, Burnett and Davis hurried to his side and, with several citizens, managed to get him away together with one of the ring-leaders in the attempt to prevent the arrest of the original assailant, who escaped.

Had Pocket Picked
Robert King, of Hunterstown, was in the Washington House about seven o'clock in the evening when he was suddenly given a shove by a small negro who quickly reached into Mr. King's pocket, drew out a purse containing $35 and made a dash for the door. The whole affair was over in the space of a few seconds and, before the victim could give chase, the pickpocket had gotten a good start down the Western Maryland tracks towards Stratton street. King followed yelling "Pickpocket!" and a crowd joined in the pursuit but the negro had gotten a good start and, in the rapidly falling darkness, made good his escape.

Local officers quelled many fights during the day and had several encounters with pickpockets. One fight on Carlisle street was stopped when Officers Wilson and Shealer dashed in and caught a man flourishing a razor. They secured their prisoner who gave the blade a toss in the air. Burgess Holtzworth was about to pick it up when several excursionists made a dash for the weapon and got away with it.

Officers Shealer and Emmons picked up James Johnson for carrying concealed deadly weapons, in this case a revolver. He was taken before Squire Harnish and committed to jail for Court trial.

Hard Task
The crowd which did not start its real operations until well on in the afternoon was almost too much for the local force of officers to handle.

During the afternoon District Attorney Wible, hearing of gambling at Round Top, sent Constable Shealer and three deputies out to the "Hill." It was soon seen that a force of four men could not cope with the 2000 there and the task was abandoned.

With all the unpleasant features of the day and night it had its humorous aspects, the best of which occurred at half past two this morning when one big black fellow on the outside of the Western Maryland station remarked to several by-standers, "I'm going to cause some 'citement', and ran into the men's waiting room flourishing one of the wooden revolvers sold by souvenir dealers.

Instantly there was a wild scramble for doors and windows and it was some minutes before all could be made believe that the weapon was harmless.

POOR AIM SAVES UCLY TRAGEDY

City Hotel Bar Room Scene of Shooting Affray when Negro Fires Five Shots. Caught soon afterward by Officer Shealer.

Firing five shots at close range in the bar-room of the City Hotel about half past nine this morning Joseph Black, colored, narrowly missed inflicting serious injury to Charles Tyson, colored, at whom the shots were fired, and several by-standers. An hour later he was arrested by Chief of Police Shealer a mile north of town, and, after a hearing before Squire Hill, was held for November Court in default of $1000 bail.

Both men concerned in the shooting are waiters at the Eagle Hotel. This morning they were eating breakfast in the waiters' dining room at the hotel and an argument arose over some trifling matter. Both offered to bet and each laid on the table a pile of six one dollar bills. Tyson suggested that they name a stake-holder and put both piles together. Black objected and Tyson took off his money. When Black counted the remainder he claimed to find only four instead of six one-dollar bills and accused Tyson of taking the balance.

Tyson resented this and told Black if he would stand up he would thrash him. Black made no move and Tyson lifted him from his seat. After Black was erect Tyson struck him on the lip, drawing blood and the affair was apparently closed.

Later Tyson and several friends were standing in the bar-room of the City Hotel and Black entered. There was more talk about the money matter and then Black called the other waiter a vile name. Tyson drew back his arm to strike and as he did so Black pulled out a big revolver and fired five shots. At the first shot Tyson and his friends dodged and crept around the edge of the bar. Jacob Eckert, bar tender, hid behind the bar, too, and in doing so just missed being struck by one bullet which went through the mirror behind him.

Black ran out the back door and all in the bar-room fled through the lobby of the hotel. When they returned there was no trace of the gun-man but Chief Shealer was put on the case and with Paul Oyler, specially deputized for the occasion, started after the man in Thad. Warren's automobile. As they proceeded out the Harrisburg road they saw Black coming along the creek bed back of Barlow's Knoll. The automobile proceeded through Bender's Bridge and then Officer Shealer drew his gun. Black threw up his hands and Deputy Oyler went through the negro's pockets, taking his 38-calibre revolver from him. He had gone out Carlisle street after the shooting and crossed towards the Harrisburg road a mile north of town.

Tyson's home is in Uniontown but he has been coming to Gettysburg for the past fifteen years. He has been here this last time since early in August. Black is a resident of Annapolis. He has been employed as a waiter at the Eagle Hotel since June.

CITY MAN'S DREAM OF FARM

If He Can Make It Come True There Should Be a Great Uplift of Agriculture.

Every right-thinking city man looks forward to spending his old age on a farm in the country. This is a true statement, but subject to modifications.

In the first place, the farm will be in the country, but not too far in. The idea is to have it near enough the city to run in for a night at the theater and get home again by 12:30.

The farmhouse will be a little more complicated than farmhouses usually are. It will be hot-water heated and vacuum cleaned. It will have of tiled bathrooms perhaps three, a Dutch kitchen, an oak-paneled dining room, a library, billiard room, den, smoking room, a Louis Quatorze drawing room and bedrooms with period furniture. Farmers whose tastes are not so simple will doubtless add a pergola and a sunroom to this plain, but serviceable, equipment.

The farm, whether it is 10, 50 or 100 acres, must have a cow, chickens and a garden. The cow will lay milk and butter, the chickens will lay eggs and broilers and the gardens will lay vegetables and small fruits. Also there will be an orchard that will lay apples. Since the farm is to be self-contained, it will raise its own violets, mushrooms and American Beauty roses, and will, of course, have a gas line well at which the automobile can be watered. While the owner of the farm will not engage in the actual manual labor of tilling the soil, he expects greatly to assist nature by exercising an intelligent supervision over the growing crops. With him bossing the job and half a dozen farmhands doing the chores, agriculture may well apprehend a great uplift.—Toronto Star.

Do not depend too much upon the rain for improvement; select your ewes as well.

Foliage and fruit diseases are usually controlled with little difficulty by spraying.

Poultrymen should select their breeding stock carefully and then take care of it.

Capture Underground Water.

An ingenious method has been employed by a Wyoming live stock company in bringing to the surface and thus making available for use, the water and underground streams, of which there are many on the slopes of the Rockies. These streams percolate through beds of sand and gravel at depths varying from 10 to 15 feet below the surface, but are prevented from sinking deeper by underlying strata of impervious clay. In building the irrigation system a row of steel sheet piling extending across the arroyo, or dry river bed, was first driven through the sand and gravel, penetrating the clay bed to a sufficient depth to prevent seepage. The spillway portions of the sheet piling were then incased in concrete, forming a continuous concrete dam. Since there was no underground escape for the water, a reservoir was quickly formed, providing a permanent source of supply for the irrigation system, by which many acres are being reclaimed.—Popular Mechanics.

TO BREAK UP BIG FORTUNES

Tax of 75 Per Cent Proposed on All Over $50,000,000.

HITS VINCENT ASTOR HARD

Senator Clapp Says Time Has Come When the Government Should Not Allow Persons of Great Wealth to Take From People What Does Not Belong to Them.

Washington, Sept. 9.—During debate on the tariff bill in the senate Senator Norris, progressive Republican, called up his amendment proposing a tax on inheritances, graduated from one per cent on $50,000 up to seventy-five per cent on bequests exceeding $50,000,000. He said it was designed to break up immense fortunes.

Senator Clapp, progressive Republican, said he would support the amendment, although he believed the time had come when government should go further and not allow people of great wealth like the Astors "to take what does not belong to them from the people."

Senator Norris took the case of Vincent Astor to illustrate the effect of his amendment. The younger Astor, he said, did nothing to accumulate the fortune of $80,000,000 he received from his father. Norris added:

Under this proposed amendment the tax Vincent Astor would pay to the government would be $13,799,500. He would then have more than $36,000,000 tipped into his lap, a fortune made by millions of people in the United States, a fortune for the accumulation of which he did not sweat a drop, a fortune accumulated without an effort of his hand or brain. Such a tax would not be robbing Mr. Astor.

Eight pearls valued at $78,000 started a near riot during the tariff bill debate. Senator Smoot produced them from his pocket and half the senators made a rush in his direction.

Senator Smoot had to produce the invoice to prove that they were the real thing and not the false variety. He held them in his hand and let his colleagues gaze on them to their heart's content.

Apparently he wasn't afraid of losing them, for while speaking he had need to make a gesture and tossed them nonchalantly on his desk.

The point of this display of valuable jewels was that the pearls could have been smuggled into the country in a cigar.

Smoot asserted that smuggling of jewels would greatly increase if the duty is raised to twenty per cent, as provided in the tariff bill. He proposed that it be kept at ten per cent, as now. His amendment to that effect was lost.

"CORPSE" COMES TO AMONG MOURNERS

Colored Woman Rises When Embalmer Enters.

Georgetown, Del., Sept. 9.—Laid out for burial and ready for the undertaker, "Aunt" Harriet Law, an aged colored woman, astonished her family by rising from her bed and demanding to know what the trouble was.

Undertaker John Carey, who was ready to embalm the woman, was compelled to postpone his work, and it was not until late at night that the colored woman died.

"Aunt" Harriet was supposed to have died Saturday night, and then sent for the undertaker. He had arrived with his embalming tools and was getting ready to go to work while several white persons who had known "Aunt" Harriet had come to the house.

The visitors had entered the death chamber, ushered in by the weeping colored people, when a gust of wind blew the door to with a slam. Before their astonished eyes "Aunt" Harriet suddenly rolled her eyes, turned her head over and then sat straight up on the bed on which she had been prepared for embalming. The colored folks ran. Medical aid was summoned and the old woman was kept alive until later, when physicians pronounced her dead beyond doubt.

Fish Stings Bathers

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 9.—Scores of bathers were treated at the hospital tents for stings from Portuguese man-of-war-men, a small fish somewhat similar to a jellyfish, which infested the shallow water. The stings are not dangerous, but extremely painful. The warmth of the water has drawn them up from further south. Oldtimers say this is the first time they have appeared here for years.

Strike Leader Arrested

Georgetown, Del., Sept. 9.—Because a large force of Italians and Bohemians objected to working with colored men in the Townsend cannery factory at Rehoboth Canal, Otto Gelbardt is in a cell at the county jail charged with inciting to riot and acting as the ringleader of the discontented ones. Gelbardt will face court next month for inciting to riot.

WILL HOLD MRS. PANKHURST

Immigration Authorities Will Detain Militant Pending Investigation

Washington, Sept. 9.—Before Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, leader of the British militant suffragists, can be admitted to the United States in October, the time set in the latest announcements for her coming, the immigration authorities will decide whether any of the acts for which she has been imprisoned in England constitute moral turpitude within the meaning of the law and make her an undesirable alien.

She will be detained at whatever port she lands, but whether, eventually, she may be permitted to enter cannot be foretold. To the immigration authorities Mrs. Pankhurst's visit presnets at this time purely a hypothetical question, and they decline to pass upon it in advance. Officials of the department of labor now are seeking all obtainable information concerning the British suffragist's militant activities that may have a legal bearing upon the right to admission to the United States.

Hopes America Will Keep Her

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 9.—"I like America," said Lord Provost D. M. Stevenson, of Glasgow, Scotland, who is visiting here, "but probably you will not think it when I say that the news that Mrs. Pankhurst is coming here is most gratifying to me. And, although I do like the country, I hope you will keep her here and not let her come back to Great Britain."

Won't Countenance Militancy.

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 9.—Miss Louise Hall, secretary of the Pennsylvania Woman Suffrage Association, said that the association would not stand for any militancy on the part of Mrs. Pankhurst if she came to this state. She stated that Mrs. Pankhurst had apparently arranged a tour which included Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

ROTHCHILD ILL IN CHICAGO

Scion of German House Caught Cold on Pike's Peak.

Chicago, Sept. 9.—Erich von Goldschmidt-Rothschild, of Frankfurt-on-the-Main, Germany, is ill with a severe cold at a local hotel and Dr. Victor von Varendorff, the young man's physician, said it might be several days before the patient is able to resume his journey east.

His temperature was reported to be 102 degrees, but a slight improvement in his condition was noted.

Dr. Von Varendorff said his patient caught cold at Pike's Peak, Col., a week ago, and the change to the lower altitude of the middle west had aggravated his indisposition.

Mrs. C. Wesley Thomas Hurt.

Stroudsburg, Pa., Sept. 9.—Mrs. C. Wesley Thomas, of Philadelphia, widow of the former collector of the port of Philadelphia, received serious injuries in a moving picture show. While leaning against what she supposed a closed window the support gave way and Mrs. Thomas fell headlong to the basement, a distance of fifteen feet. Her condition is critical. Mrs. Thomas had been spending the summer with her sister, Mrs. Miller who owns Churleigh Inn, about a mile from here.

A THIEVING MYSTERY

By EDITH V. ROSS

"Mr. Murtaugh," said Andrews, chief officer of the postoffice detective bureau, "more thievery has been going on at Trimmingsham. This is the fourth time stamps have been missed in that quarter, and I wish you to go there and get on to the thief."

"I've been there twice already," replied Murtaugh, "without finding anything wrong. The people of the town all have the most perfect confidence in Miss Griggs, the postmistress, and her only clerk is her younger sister, aged sixteen. Miss Griggs has appeared to be as much puzzled as any one as to what becomes of the missing stamps."

"I'm afraid, Murtaugh, you're too gallant to spy on a woman." There was a hidden meaning in the words, for Andrews was not above spying on the members of his force and had learned that Detective Murtaugh, who had been several times to Trimmingsham to ferret out the source of the trouble, had been making love to the postmistress. Indeed, he would have sent some one else this time, but he suspected Murtaugh of shielding Miss Griggs, and if he was doing this he was recreant to his duties as a postoffice official. Murtaugh made no reply to Andrews' last remark, and the latter added:

"Well, try it once more. If you don't get on to the thief this time I'll try some one else."

This was spoken in a tone to give Murtaugh a warning. He was one of the best men on the force, and Andrews didn't wish him to get into trouble by shielding a thief.

Murtaugh had thoroughly convinced himself of Miss Griggs' honesty, and her sterling worth was apparent to every one. He knew it would be folly for him to spy on her, and, acting on his own judgment, he went openly to Trimmingsham and told her that he had come to help her find who was stealing her stamps.

The postoffice was a little one story frame building, all of which was occupied for mail purposes. One night Murtaugh stole unobserved into the postoffice, climbed up under the roof and bored a peep hole in the ceiling through which he could look down into the postoffice. A few stamps had been left in the postmistress' desk. The detective kept awake all night, but heard not the slightest sound below, saw no light—indeed, no sign of any one coming to steal stamps. But in the morning the stamps left in the desk were gone.

Since the thievery was perpetrated at night there was no need to watch in the daytime. Indeed, no stamps had ever been missed in the day. They were counted in the morning and at night. How the thief managed to get into the house after dark without being detected Murtaugh could not conceive.

When sure that no one was near to see him he examined every part of the little building, especially the cellar, for a subterranean passage, but could find no possible entrance. That Miss Griggs or her sister could so far outwit him as to get into the house while he was there without his knowing it he felt sure was impossible. The stealing must be committed by some one else—some one who managed to conceal himself or herself in the building. This person must be able to work quite noiselessly. Whether the exit was made in the daytime or not was like all the rest of it—unknown. Indeed, Murtaugh could not find any possible way any one could get into the building unless by going down the chimney, and to do this without being heard would be very difficult.

During the time of his operations his love affair with Miss Griggs was being brought to a head, and when he returned to his chief the only thing he had to report was that he was engaged to the person whom he had been sent to spy on. This he kept to himself, though Andrews knew of his lovetaking, for he had sent a detective to spy on his spy.

Andrews astonished Murtaugh by discharging him. He also transmitted an order written at his suggestion from Washington to Miss Griggs that she was required to make good all the stamps that had been purloined. Since from the first more than $100 worth was unaccounted for and the salary at Trimmingsham was but $400 a year Miss Griggs found herself unable to comply with the order, for she and her mother and sister needed every cent of her income.

Murtaugh found another job. Miss Griggs was permitted to retain her place till an enlargement of the postoffice building which was intended could be made. In taking out a side of the house the workmen laid bare a space that was filled with fragments of postage stamps. Miss Griggs' desk had stood against this wall. Mice had gnawed a hole from the wall into the back of the desk, which gave them access to the drawer in which she kept the stamps. The tiny thieves, attracted by the gum arabic on the back of the stamps, had carried them where they could feast on it at leisure.

A great deal of sympathy had been manifested for Miss Griggs by the townspeople, who all signed a petition that she should be retained in her position. This was now not necessary. She would have retained her position, but Murtaugh established a detective agency of his own and wanted her to attend to his house and home.

Mummy Eyes.
Many eyes, as they are called, are taken from the bodies of Egyptian mummies, but bear no resemblance to the human eye. They look like glass shells with gilt inside, and in spite of their being sold, they are delicate and very easily broken. When exposed to dampness the gilt appearance is lost and they resemble a piece of yellow crystal.

SENATE VOTES ON TARIFF BILL

Measure Considered by Body at Night Session.

FINAL VOTE THIS AFTERNOON

Last Effort Was Made by Senator La Follette to Amend Wool Schedule, But He Failed.—Democratic Leaders Seek to Force Final Vote Regardless of Argument.

Washington, Sept. 9.—Plans of the Democratic leaders to pass the tariff bill in the senate last night went awry, and at a late hour adjournment was taken until today, with the understanding that a vote shall be had on the measure at five o'clock this afternoon. It was clearly demonstrated that the president is in control of the situation, and that the bill will go through safely on its final passage.

Democratic leaders had done their utmost to suppress general speeches and force progress, and before the evening session was well under way voting on final important amendments had begun.

The first hint of the final fight over free raw wool came when Senator La Follette introduced a general substitute for the wool tariff sections of the Underwood-Simmons bill. An inheritance tax amendment offered by Senator Norris was pending at the time, and debate alternated between the subjects for several hours.

The La Follette wool plan came as a surprise to the Democratic side. Instead of the expected fifteen per cent duty on raw material after Jan. 1 next his substitute proposed a general cut of the wool rates, based on a thirty per cent raw wool duty for 1914, a twenty-five per cent duty for 1915 and a fifteen per cent duty after Jan. 1, 1916.

When Senator La Follette concluded Senator Stone, in charge of the wool sections of the bill, urged Democrats to refrain from debate. He said the subject had been thoroughly covered before; that Senator La Follette had refrained from offering his amendment when the wool issue was being discussed, and that the tariff bill's passage should not be delayed by the reopening of the wool fight.

While the high woolen tariff rates of the present law came in for much of Senator La Follette's criticism, he insisted that the Democratic bill did not treat the wool raising industry fairly. He declared the wool duty was about the only tariff duty from which the farmer profited, and demanded an explanation for the Democratic plan of taking all the duty off wool at once, while Louisiana sugar producers were given three years in which to prepare for free sugar.

When the vote came at the night session the substitute was defeated, 41 to 28, and immediately afterward Senator La Follette offered another amendment to fix a straight fifteen per cent duty on wool and this was promptly voted down, 39 to 29. The Penrose wool substitute was defeated viva voce.

Senator Brady, of Idaho, Republican, credited the Democrats with good faith in their efforts to prepare a fair tariff bill, but insisted the present measure would be a failure. He said farmers throughout the west who voted for the Democratic party did not believe that agricultural products would be put on the free list.

Senator Warren, of Wyoming, said the bill meant free trade as far as his state was concerned, and that "absolute free trade" was the ultimate end.

Senator Jones, of Washington, Republican, had offered an inheritance tax amendment and said he believed the country would soon recognize the justice of heavy taxes upon large inherited estates. His plan would impose a graduated tax, running up to thirty-five per cent on lineal inheritances of over $30,000,000 and fifty per cent on collateral inheritances above $15,000,000.

BOY BORN TO THE ROXBURGHES

Former May Golet, of Newport, Gives Birth to Son.

London, Sept. 9.—The Duchess of Roxburgh, who was Miss May Golet, of Newport, before her marriage, has given birth to a son. The babe was born at the London residence of the Roxburghes.

Reports say the child is a fine youngster and that the mother is doing nicely.

The child born will become the ninth duke of the line. The title dates from 1707, although the earldom ranks from 1816 and the barony from 1690.

May Golet was twenty-five years old when she married the duke at St. Thomas' Church in New York Nov. 10, 1905. She had passed eighteen of her twenty-five years in Europe.

The duke, who has never been accused of being a fortune hunter, having an annual income of $300,000 of his own, is a captain in the horse guards and a man of real position in the English aristocracy. He succeeded his father to the family title and estates in 1892.

The birth of an heir to the dukedom has caused widespread joy in the border county, where the family wielded immense influence. Bonfires will blaze from the hilltops, and all kinds of festivities are being prepared by the people of Haddingtonshire.

REPUBLICANS WIN

Maine Returns Indicate Election of Peters to Congress.

Augusta, Me., Sept. 9.—Returns received indicate the election of John A. Peters, Republican, in the special election in the third congressional district to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Forrest Goodwin by a plurality of 600 over William R. Pattangall, of Waterville, Democrat. The third candidate was Edwin M. Lawrence, of Lubec, Progressive.

The contest for the seat in congress from Blaine's old district has been the liveliest ever held in this state. The tariff was the principal point at issue, and William J. Bryan, secretary of state; Speaker Champ Clark and other Democrats of prominence spoke in the district.

The reason assigned for the election of the Republican nominee is that the members of the Progressive party who at the presidential election last November voted for ex-President Roosevelt voted for the Republican nominee.

Kennebec county gave Mr. Pattangall a plurality of 1200, but this was offset by the vote for Peters in the other counties in the district. The Progressive strength for the most part was confined to the country towns.

The vote was considered quite heavy for a special election.

The congressman-elect is former speaker of the house and represents the so-called "stand-pat" element of the Republican party. The defeated candidate, Mr. Pattangall, is a former attorney general, while the Progressive candidate, Mr. Lawrence, is a prominent sardine manufacturer.

WOMAN WAS CUT UP ALIVE

So Declares Doctor of Woman's Dismembered Body.

LOOKS LIKE SURGEON'S WORK

Police Still Searching for Head of Woman Found Murdered at Hoboken, N. J.—Was Victim of an Illegal Operation.

New York, Sept. 9.—That the young woman, portions of whose body were found near Hoboken, N. J., was brutally murdered was stated by Dr. T. J. Lehane, coroner's physician of New York, following an autopsy.

Dr. Lehane declared the young woman had been cut up alive.

Her head, he said, probably was first severed and her body then cut to pieces.

The physicians found no traces of poison and no wound to indicate that she had been shot. Neither did the condition of the lungs indicate that she had been under the influence of an anesthetic.

Lying in a morgue at Hoboken, N. J., were portions of the body of a young woman. The head is still missing, and in a search for it scores of men under the direction of Coroner Schemm, of West Hoboken, are searching along the river where the torso and then the thighs of the murdered girl were found.

Coroner Schemm said that he would delay holding an inquest because he believed the identity of the young woman might soon be established.

"We hope to find the head soon," said the coroner, but he admitted there was a chance that the head might not be recovered, as was the case in the murder of Pearl Bryan. The lower portion of the body was discovered late Monday and turned over to the authorities.

Wrapped first in a pillow slip, embroidered with the initial "A," the portion of the body had been wrapped in heavy paper. It was after this part of the body was found that Dr. George W. King, county physician, discovered a motive for the crime. Had she lived the woman would have become a mother within four months, Dr. King said. Dr. King did not discover on his first examination of the body whether an operation had been performed.

"The work of dismembering the body was neatly done," said Dr. King. "Each cut was clean and the bones sawed squarely off, but in dismembering the torso the murderer showed the greatest knowledge of the human body. The person who dismembered the body understood how to separate the joints of the vertebrae. The torso was cut in two in an expert manner."

A close examination of the body indicates that the woman probably was accustomed to good living. The skin is clean and clear. The victim was in a state of perfect health and there is no sign of any disease.

"The finding of the lower section of the body is a big step in the solution of the mystery, and we now of course hope to find the head. The portions of the body found show that the victim was of perfect proportions."

At the coroner's office it was learned that the victim probably had been accustomed to wearing low evening gowns, without the usual shoulder band, as it was discovered that the hair had been removed from the armpits. This resulted in the theory that the victim might have been a member of the theatrical profession.

WIFE CHARGES MURDER

Declares Husband Told Her He Poisoned First Helpmate.

Chicago, Sept. 9.—Charges made by Mrs. May Muir that her husband, A. Burt Muir, an accountant, had confided to her that he had poisoned his first wife, Mrs. Mary L. Ryan Muir, in Louisville, Ky., more than a year ago, were brought out in the municipal court.

Muir was arrested on a warrant charging disorderly conduct on complaint of Mrs. May Muir, and when he was arraigned before Municipal Judge Dolan a continuance was obtained until Friday on the ground that more time was desired in which to investigate the death of Muir's first wife. Muir demanded an immediate hearing, but his request was denied.

Mrs. Muir told the story of the alleged poisoning to Police Captain Thomas Meagher before the case was called in court.

Muir's first wife died in Louisville on June 6, 1912. Muir married his present wife in Nashville, Tenn., last February. Muir denied the charges that he was responsible for the death of his first wife.

One good look at this Wooltex Motor Coat made us buy it

When the makers of Wooltex first showed us this coat we bought it.

We saw in it the distinctive and exclusive Wooltex style lines—recognized the influence of the Paris Wooltex Style Bureau in its design, and felt at once that some of our best trade would be glad we secured it for them.

As to the quality, that is all taken care of by the Wooltex guarantee of two full seasons' satisfactory wear.

It surprised us when we were told we could get the coat to sell to you at Twenty-five Dollars.

Weanings, Yearlings, 2 and 3 Year Old
Colts. Also a few Broken Mares and Mule Colts.

Fresh Cows, Springers, Fine Stock Bulls
Steers and Heifers.

At my Stables at Littlestown,

On Saturday, Sept. 13, '13

They come direct from West Virginia, the kind that always grow in value and demand the highest cash price. They are no bronchos, but the right kind to make heavy draft and fine drivers. It isn't the idea to make lots of money on the young stock but to get them into the country and I will have a chance to buy a great many back again when they grow up, as if I don't get young stock into the country there is no stock to buy, as our farmers don't grow them up as they did years ago. Farmers in need of the above stock will do well to attend this sale, as they all know that when I put them up I sell them. Your price is mine. No by bidding. All stock must be as represented or no sale. I am going to buy the best Colts, Cows, Bulls, Steers and Heifers for this sale that I have ever offered at public sale.

Sale to start at 1 o'clock P. M., rain or shine. Liberal credit will be given.

Howard J. Spalding.
